

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. Airing a one sided documentary shortly before a closely contested elections does not serve the public interest.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules. If Sinclair goes through with this, then the licenses of their stations should not be renewed. Thank you,

David Grace